

Service corp. joins Habitat building Annapolis homes

03-18-WNAV-It is all hands on deck as Habitat for Humanity and the Corporation for National and Community Service work with more than 125 of America's servicemen and women, veterans and active military as well as Ameri-Corps and Senior Corp members build homes in the Annapolis Clay Street neighborhood. The Veterans Build began Thursday and continues through today. Mike Mitchell with Habitat says service is part of the group's mission. Mitchell says about 90 veterans will be on site today continuing construction of the new residences. Mitchell says community members are welcomed to come and lend a hand.
